

Blackjack Strategy and Slots Strategy

Gambling often requires that a player plan out a strategy before commencing the play. If a player has a blackjack strategy or a slots strategy then his chances of winning and in that process making money becomes a lot higher.

In a game of blackjack there can be three kinds of hands, namely, hard hands, soft hands and split pairs. The blackjack strategy that you need to know before playing the game is as follows:

If you have a total of eight or less then you should always hit.

If the dealer has a number between three and six and you have nine then you should double it otherwise hit.

Knowing blackjack strategy will help you win more often and in the course will help you earn more money.

If you have points between seventeen and twenty one then you should always stand.

The above mentioned blackjack strategy should be incorporated while playing a hard hand.

Your hand will be called a soft hand if one of your starting cards is an ace. In this scenario if you have an ace and a two or an ace and a three and the dealer have five or six you should stand otherwise pick another card.

If you have an ace and a six, double it if the dealer has three, four, five or six, otherwise hit.

If you on the other hand have an ace and an eight or an ace and a nine then you should always stand.

Today because of the popularity of gambling as a whole many people are writing about blackjack strategy as well as other slots strategy in their websites.

Now we discuss a blackjack strategy when played in pairs. If say you have an ace and an eight you should always split.

If on the other hand, you have a pair of twos and threes then you should only split if the dealer has two, three, four, five, six or seven.

If you have a pair of nines then you should only split if the dealer has two, three, four, five, six, eight and nine and should stand if the dealer has seven, ten or ace.

But if you have a pair of tens then you should always stand.

In case of a slot machine the spins of the wheels of these machines are programmed randomly by computers. The slots strategy that can be used to maximize returns is very simple. Most slot machines reward the player who plays the maximum number of coins. For example the jackpot may pay 1000 coins for every five coins played and 2000 coins for every eight coins played. So the slots strategy that works here is to play for the maximum amount of time.

If you are not comfortable spending too much money in the slot machines then instead of choosing 'a dollar slot' you can go for a slot machine that would accept lesser denominations.

Therefore, by knowing blackjack strategy as well as slots strategy you can easily earn a lot of money.
